

USPTO China Road Show: Protecting Your Intellectual Property In China and the Global Marketplace

April 2-3, 2008
8:30 am to 5:30 pm

In the World of Intellectual Property, the Best Protection is Prevention.

The USPTO is holding a 2-day, free, program to help U.S. businesses protect and enforce their intellectual property rights (IPR) in China. The program is for companies of any size, from those contemplating entering the China market to those with an established presence in China, and including those who simply want to know more about protecting their products from counterfeiting and piracy. This program is part of the USPTO's continuing commitment to increase public awareness of the importance of intellectual property rights and the need to protect and enforce these rights in the global marketplace.

This Conference is Free
Seating is Limited
Register Now

<http://www.signup4.net/Public/ap.aspx?EID=IPAC41E>

Houston Hobby Airport Marriott
9100 Gulf Freeway
Houston, TX 77017
(713) 943-7979

